Don't miss out!

Dear colleague,

With a fresh school year now starting, you may be considering your vision for the future. Are you looking to sharpen up your knowledge and skills so that you're able to flourish in your current role? Do you wish to prepare for a future role? How can you develop the teacher excellence needed to inspire the next generation?

If you are looking to deepen your expertise or become a key member in the innovation of school leadership, this NPQ programme is right for you. The deadline for our November cohort is fast approaching. Applications close on 25th September.

With 18 regional teaching centres across the UK, you can build those important networks of peers and local alliances that make the difference between simply gaining a qualification, and really gaining value from your time on the programme. So don't miss out!
